You might prefer to watch movies at home on TV or online, but I strongly recommend you visit a movie theater this winter. There are so many great new movies to watch! Here are some popular new movies.

The first movie you should check out is Peter's Way Home. A dog travels 300 miles alone to look for his owner. The dog has many problems on his journey, but his animal friends help him. If you like animals, you will love this movie.

Happy, Happy!! is also a wonderful story. This is an animation that has won many awards. The movie is about the friendship between a boy named Bob and his robot. I am sure that you will want a robot friend after watching this movie.

The Christmas Dreamer and Moon Crash are good choices for people who want to escape from reality. In The Christmas Dreamer, the main character experiences time travel in his dreams. Moon Crash is a science fiction movie about a female astronaut. She has some problems caused by the AI on her spaceship. The scenes in outer space are so beautiful. You will also want to go to outer space.

In Mr. Whiteman, the main character is a ghost hunter trying to destroy ghosts that are living in an old house in a forest. If you are a fan of horror movies, you will like Mr. Whiteman.

You can watch these movies at Theater Max or West Cinema. Let's go out and enjoy the movies!

This is a blog post by Keiko, a famous travel writer.

“What a small world!” This is a common expression we use when we come across someone we know unexpectedly, but for me this often happens, especially when I travel.

One time I visited Beijing, China, for sightseeing with a friend of mine. That was my first visit to China, and I was so excited because everything was new to me. On the third day, we went to a famous Chinese palace. When we got to the gate of the palace, two familiar faces in the crowd caught my eyes. They were in a tour group from Japan. I recognized them instantly. They were my seniors in college! We were all in the same hiking club at that time. I waved at them. At first, they looked puzzled, but soon they recognized me and waved back at me. We were all so surprised to meet again in China after 15 years. Such a small world! We talked excitedly for a while until they had to go back to their tour group.

Another “small world” experience happened on an island called Yakushima in Kagoshima, Japan, far away from where I live. It was my first time traveling alone. When I arrived at the hotel, I saw a woman who was reading a book and having tea in the lobby. Another familiar face! She was a classmate from my junior high school. We had not seen each other since graduation. We were very surprised to see each other. “What are you doing here?” we both said at the same time. I learned she was also traveling alone. We hiked around the island and enjoyed the hot springs together for a few days.

I am not sure if these experiences are just coincidence or not. Maybe it is simply because I travel a lot compared to other people. Anyway, I am looking forward to having more “small world” experiences. They make me feel that this world is full of surprises and wonders that we simply cannot explain.

1 The writer, Keiko, 24

- ① studies how she can make this world small.
- ② wonders how people used to travel in the past.
- ③ always makes plans to meet her friends when traveling.
- ④ often happens to meet someone she knows when traveling.

2 In Beijing, Keiko 25

- ① got bored at everything she saw.
- ② lost her wallet at the palace.
- ③ met her seniors from her college days.
- ④ talked to a Chinese tour guide.

3 The woman in the lobby at the hotel in Yakushima was 26

- ① one of Keiko's junior high school classmates.
- ② someone Keiko met for the first time.
- ③ the mother of Keiko's junior high school friend.
- ④ Keiko's tea ceremony teacher in high school.

4 These "small world" experiences make Keiko feel that 27

- ① her friends travel more than she does.
- ② her friends don't like traveling.
- ③ the world isn't interesting.
- ④ the world is full of surprises and wonders.
